DESCRIPTION
Outside Looking In is a videographic quilt composed of a series of short scenes, sung poems and contradictory truths stated by off-screen voices. Navigating between the realistic and oneiric, the serious and ironic, this video presents the story of a young woman and a young man who are exasperated by living in a restrictive society. Undermined, however, by their own uncertainty, they are unable to engage themselves in any direction. These two friends, enraged at not knowing how to be angry, and exasperated at being exasperated, constantly confront daily life in an attempt to surpass it and attain the flip side of life.
