DESCRIPTION
This video depicts women’s attitudes towards turning 30 and talk about the changes they undergo as they approach the end of their youth. The video documents changes in their ideas about love and marriage and changes in their ideas about beauty and the beauty due to aging and approaching death. The camera gives us a feeling of intimacy towards these women, showing us a lot of close-ups of their facial expressions. For these women, the awareness of passing time coincides with a better self-awareness and new values. The thirties appear as a positive step in which a certain self-deception makes room for movement forward.
