DESCRIPTION
Humans are such as small or vast territories, which are sometimes difficult to explore, to draw the boundaries, to conquer… Territories such as landscapes, landscapes such as climates, climates such as gestures. Des lendemains radieux (Beautiful promises) is an attempt to reconsider our environment through the prismes of prospective and poetry, in order to reveal modestly the upheavals that are to envision, by awakening the attention about the extraordinary interactions between the man and the nature, from the history of the world until the sudden appearance of modernity. Culture... is what made the human kind something else that an accident of the universe.
