DESCRIPTION
The opening is the moment where the artist hold his or her breath. What will they think of my work? It is also a time to celebrate an achievement born of a long and bold work process. In this episode you will discover the Centre d'artistes Optica and the Momenta Art gallery, as well as the artists featured there.

This series documents the Brooklyn/Montreal project, a Centre Clark initiative involving 16 institutions and 40 artists in a series of reciprocal exhibitions that revealed the cultural differences and similarities of two cities, both standard-bearers of contemporary art in North America. The event took place in Montreal from October 19 to November 17, 2012, and in Brooklyn from January 10 to February 2, 2013.
