DESCRIPTION

Two female bodies, imbued with memories and physical hindrances, awaken in a timeless space, where their presence and their encounter lead them to thoughts fixed in this notion of today. Thoughts of a fully conscious being that needs to reconnect to itself, to authenticity and to matter, trying to find a connection with another human and with nature.

« When my head is a gapping void and I can't stay put anymore, only my feet can save me. So I leave... I walk the land. »
