DESCRIPTION

Waving hello to the filming cameraperson, the subjects, through this very gesture, are also, in some way, providing a future viewer with the acknowledgment of a constant good-bye to a fleeting moment. Yet when the film is projected and the captured gesture is seen it's as if they are saying hello again from the past in the now of the projection. This film is an homage to the man behind the camera in these personal family archives, the artist's father, who left her this heritage beyond mortality in the traces of past lives.
